

deconsolidation

A photograph of a dark, textured surface, possibly a rock or sediment. The surface shows signs of weathering and erosion, with numerous small, light-colored particles and scratches visible. Two labels with leader lines point to specific features: 'deconsolidation' points to a small, light-colored spot in the upper right, and 'color change' points to a small, light-colored spot in the lower right. A scale bar in the bottom left corner indicates a length of 5 mm.

color change

5 mm